Washington, D.C. (January 4, 2017) – The HSC Health Care System, a D.C.-based nonprofit committed to serving families with complex health care needs and eliminating barriers to health services, announced today that Josephine Bias Robinson will become its new vice president of external affairs.

Ms. Bias Robinson will begin her work the first week of January. With more than 20 years of experience in community relations, government affairs, education and non-profit work, she will work closely with the System’s leadership on various community and external partnerships.

“Josephine Bias Robinson’s expertise in community relations, combined with her knowledge of the Washington metropolitan area, will be a tremendous asset to our organization,” said Dr. Nathaniel Beers, MD, MPA, FAAP, current executive vice president of management and clinical affairs. “In this role, she will help pull together all System activities and coordinate engagement with community and external partners in a strategic and focused way.”

Ms. Bias Robinson has provided professional services to numerous government and non-profit organizations. Most recently she served as the chief of family and public engagement for District of Columbia Public Schools (DCPS). Over the past four years, she helped DCPS shift from a reactive system to a position of proactive community engagement.

Prior to her work at DCPS, Ms. Bias Robinson served as vice president for financial stability and community impact for United Way Worldwide and in various roles at the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services and the White House, including director of community services and associate director of the office of public liaison.

She has also served as a board member for various organizations including Communities in Schools – National Capital Area, D.C. Promise Neighborhood Initiative, Enhanced Capital Partners – Community Development Corporation, and The Children’s Charities Foundation. Ms. Bias Robinson received her bachelor’s degree in foreign service, international relations and politics from Georgetown University.
